ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.
Mr. George C. Gordin, of the firm of Howcott & Gordin, New Orleans, while riding on the Deer creek road, a few miles from this place, on the evening of the 21st, was fired at from the cane, and a ball put through his hat, by some unknown assassin. As Mr. Gordin was a stranger, the supposition is that the assassin mistook him for the victim for whom he was lying in ambush.

OBITUARY.

At half past two o'clock Thursday, December 10, 1874, ELIZABETH LANDON, second daughter of Captain William F. and Nannie B. Randolph, died at Woodstock plantation, Washington county, Mississippi—aged 2 years and 8 months.

Tuesday, the 8th instant. At first the nature of her disease was not appreciated, but soon there were unmistakable evidences that she was suffering from an attack of spinal meningitis. All that skill-ful physicians could accomplish in this fearful disease was done in her behalf. She was a great suff-erer until late in the day Wedneserer until late in the day Wednesday, when unconsciousness came to her relief. As gently and peacefully as the rays of the setting sun withdraw their genial light from this world of ours, and leave all in the silent, pensive embrace of night, so the spirit of Lizzie Landon bade adieu to its beautiful temple of clay to bloom and expand into a more perfect image of its Creator, and to blend its ray with the many that cast their radiance over the laud of endless peace and repose. It is indeed and to chronicle the death of those we so tenderly love in this vale of

The Mississippi Levees.

A Washington dispatch to the Vicksburg Herald, dated 21st inst. says that Judge Jeffords, Mr. Hayeraft and Colonel Bruce, of the Levee Board, visited the President to-day. They had previously visited the Levee Commission. The President said that he favored a general system of levees as a par-

President said that he favored a general system of levees, as a partial system, while protecting one part, damages another. To make the system effectual it must be correct. The committee speak highly of the President's knowledge of what is requisite.

We return thanks to Mr. Haycraft for Washington and New York papers. He returned home yesterday, much encouraged in the success of the mission. He is of opinion that the visit will bear fruit for the good of our levee interests, being satisfied that Congress will lend its aid to some plan for the benefit of the alluvial regions.

Southern Affairs.

Southern Affairs.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The Republican Senators held a caucus this evening, at the solicitation of the Southern Senators, at which the condition of the South was considered. The Senators from the South advocated sending troops there. They feared the Republican party was hopelessly dead unless decisive steps were taken to put down the turbulent whites. They confess their inability to poll the white votes. The Northern Senators didn't endorse these views Some openly oxpressed theraselves against further interference with Southern affairs, saying they had lost many votes in the North by it. Senator Lewis, of Virginia, declared that the Republican party had lost power in the South because of the bad character of many of its would-be-leaders and the advocacy of the civil rights bill, which he considered a most iniquitous measure. The South could only be carried for the Republican party by sending troops enough to prevent the people from voting. A majority evidently agreed with him, as before the vote was taken many left the room, and Senator Morton, who was relied upon by the extreme Republicans, did not come to their relief.
